Andrea lived her life to the fullest. She loved to travel nationally and abroad, and especially enjoyed the beach, her “happy place.” She found great joy spending time with her family and friends, including her beloved nephews and nieces. She was the best “Tía Puchii” in the world, never missing a play, recital, or game. Her only sister, Ana, was her best friend and soul mate. She was admired for her creativity and the ability to make lovely crafts. Everything she touched, decorated, organized, or created became beautiful with her handiwork. She was a long-time supporter and participant in the Stater Bros. Believe Walk, a charity that benefits women fighting cancer.
