

Jordan Alexandra Lane (1989-2008)

Jordan Lane

Jordan Alexandra Lane, died March 21, 2008, after a fatal car accident. Born April 22, 1989, in Mission Hills, Calif., Jordan was raised in the Mojave Desert.

Whether it was singing with her mother, Linda, playing with her siblings, or enjoying a good book in the tranquility of her own room, Jordan always loved to have fun. Her optimism grew with her age, as she blossomed into a sweet, joyful, generous woman. Her creativity was most properly expressed through her love of dance, by which she expressed for ten years. Her selfless ways emulated a genuine sincerity, which would go on to significantly inspire all those who were lucky enough to meet Jordan.

Graduating in 2007 from Barstow High School, she was known for her charming and consistently nice personality. Never one to judge, she treated strangers like friends, cared for friends like family, and loved her family more than anything in the world. While she did not have an ego, her confidence inspired many, making her presence known with a delicate subtlety. Her passing is tragic and she will most definitely be missed, but she is with God now, and her family looks forward to the day they will meet again.

Her spirit will survive through her siblings, Joseph Lane, 23, Jarod Lane, 21, Jelena Lane, 14, and Demetrio Gallegos, 7; her parents, Frank Lane and Linda Gallegos; and the rest of her loving family and friends.

Visitation will be held at 9 a.m. Friday, March 28, 2008 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church.
